Gun Battle

DURANT, Okla.—(AP)—Pete Traxler, the Southwest's No. 1 badman, kidnapped a farmer near Caddo, Okla., Wednesday and fled northward after breaking through a cordon of officers in the Washita river bottoms near here.

A large posse of state patrolmen sped in pursuit and were reported close behind the fleeing desperado and his companion on a country road.

The farmer, Frank Trimmer, was first held at his farm and was then forced to accompany the escaped Texas convict in his car.

Battle With Officers
DURANT, Okla.—(AP)—Mrs. Pete Traxler was captured late Tuesday by a posse of peace officers after her husband, Oklahoma desperado, and a companion fugitive from a Texas prison farm, escaped into the Washita river bottoms on foot after a gun battle with about 100 officers.

Deputy Sheriff G. G. Murphy of Bryan county said Mrs. Traxler and a car in which she and the two men were riding were seized about 16 miles west of here. Deputy Sheriff J. R. McLaughlin and Ben Risher of Constantine Green Beams of Kingston, Okla., found the car at the dead end of a road south of Aylsworth, Okla.

The officers opened fire, and the men in the car returned it. The shots attracted about 100 officers in a posse.

The two men fled the car during the battle and ran into the river bottoms. Bloodhounds from McAlester, Okla., penitentiary were summoned, and horses were used to carry searchers through the timbered country.

The fugitives' car was riddled with bullets. A brief case full of shotgun shells and some suitcases containing Mrs. Traxler's and her husband's clothing were in the car.

Footprints of the fleeing men, believed to be Fred Tindol and Traxler, were followed into the river bottoms for a short distance before the trail was lost. None of the posse was injured, and it was not known whether any of the fugitives had been hit.

Traxler's Wife Talks
"Pete and the others came through Verdun, Okla., about a week ago," Murphy quoted Mrs. Traxler as saying. "I refused to go with them. Then they came in this morning and Pete came upstairs to my rooms and talked to me about it. He finally talked me into going with him. He told me I was all he had now."

Verdun is about 150 miles northwest of where she was captured.

Mrs. Traxler told Murphy that they had stopped their car to rest when the officers surprised them.

"Pete told me I'd better run," she said, "but when the firing began, I fainted and when I woke up Pete was gone and about a hundred officers were gathered around."

Traxler and Tindol were among the nine convicts who escaped from a gun battle about 10 days ago from the Huntsville, Texas, prison farm. Thursday, Traxler, Tindol and another escaped convict, Charlie Chapman, kidnapped Baird H. Markham Jr., Yale undergraduate and son of a New York oil executive, for his car. They halted him near Ada, where he was working in the oil fields and took him on a wild night ride through North Central Oklahoma, releasing him unharmed near Sapulpa.

Posse in Search of Third Convict

One Is Killed, Another
Captured—and Officer
Is Wounded

MONTICELLO, Ark.—(AP)—An escaped Texas convict fled through the dense southeast Arkansas woods Wednesday from a posse that killed one of his companions and captured another in a swift gun battle 12 miles east of here.

The slain convict was W. H. Bybee, 26, who himself seriously wounded Sgt. Neil Shannon of the State Police force in a shotgun exchange late Tuesday.

Another escaped convict, James Rice, 30, was captured but a third escaped. He was described by state police as Harry Roberts, 34.

Sgt. Shannon was brought to a hospital here where attendants said he would recover.

Bloodhounds from Cummins prison farm trailed Roberts four miles and then lost the trail.

Bybee the 'Forgotten Man'
HUNTSVILLE, Texas.—(AP)—W. H. Bybee, who escaped with 18 others from the Eastham prison farm June 15 was something of an enigma to prison officials. He was neither bad nor good, feared nor loved.

Sent up on a robbery charge, Bybee was untroubled until January, 1934, when Clyde Barrow and Bonnie Parker liberated their confederate, Raymond Hamilton, under gunfire at the same farm. Bybee climbed into Barrow's car during the break and the chase was so hot he could not be dropped for many miles.

That gave him a criminal name—he was a member of a notorious gang. Though abandoned as quickly as possible by Barrow, Bybee's fame had been established.

Later recaptured, he was not feared by prison officials who returned him to his plow squad job on the farm.

Rice May Be Questioned
PURCELL, Okla.—(AP)—County Attorney Smith Hester said he was undecided whether he would seek to return James Rice, 30, escaped Texas convict captured near Monticello, Ark., for questioning in the slaying of E. C. Smith, whose bullet-riddled body was found in the rear of a hardware store at Byars, near here.

Prather was captured at Blytheville, Ark., and returned here.

60 Per Cent Favor Primary Election Fitzhugh Asserts

Scores of Telegrams Advocate
Nomination of Bailey

GROUP MEETS FRIDAY

Governor Answers Challenge
From Claude Fuller
of Eureka Springs

LITTLE ROCK, (AP)—The Democratic State Committee released for publication Wednesday scores of telegrams from throughout the state, many of them advocating the nomination by the committee of Governor Carl E. Bailey for the United States senate seat left vacant by the death of Joe T. Robinson.

Chairman Thomas Fitzhugh said, however, that he believed approximately 60 per cent of the communications received this week favored a primary election.

The Helena World, in an editorial written by Editor Leo Nyberg, Phillips county representative of the Arkansas legislature, said Wednesday.

"All of this current hullabaloo over the selection of the successor to the late Senator Robinson is so much wasted effort. At least 20 of the 35 members of the State Democratic committee are definitely pledged to designate Governor Bailey as the Democratic nominee in a special election which the governor will call as soon as possible—which will be about September 14."

"Of course Governor Bailey may voice strenuous objections for public consumption—but he will accept the nomination just the same."

Answers Challenge
LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—(AP)—Governor Carl E. Bailey answered Tuesday night a challenge of Congressman Claude A. Fuller that he seek the senatorial nomination in a special primary with a statement his course would be decided after the democratic state committee meets Friday.

The Eureka Springs representative asserted he planned to make the race for the late Joseph T. Robinson's seat if a primary is held, commenting:

"If Governor Bailey can secure the nomination from the voters he will be entitled to the loyal support of everyone in the party but no one can accept the committee nomination and retain and enjoy the confidence of the people."

Three hours later, Bailey sent a 38-word typewritten statement to newspapers which said:

"My course will be decided upon after the democratic state committee acts in accordance with the law and party rules. In the meantime my friends may expect the best of me and my enemies may fear the worst."

Asked if there would be any interpretation of the statement, John F. Wells, the governor's secretary who distributed copies to the press, said:

"His friends and his enemies will interpret it the same way."

Those seeking a primary in advance of a special election expected September 14 have charged that the committee, closely aligned with the state administration, will nominate.

Fuller's statement, which followed those issued earlier by three others of the Arkansas delegation urging the democratic state committee to call a primary when it meets Friday, asserted "no man can serve long as dictator in Arkansas and name state, county and congressional officials."

Members of a citizens committee opposing a state committee nomination said their stand would be backed before the party group Friday by hundreds from all sections of the state.

Three Civil Suits Settled in Court

Consent Judgments Are
Maye and A. C. Maye

Three civil suits were settled in a short session of Hempstead circuit court at Washington Wednesday.

N. W. Page, Hope meat market operator, was given a consent judgment of $1,000 in a libel suit brought against the Arkansas Democrat and his Hope correspondent, C. C. Westerman.

The case resulted from an article printed in the Little Rock newspaper about a year ago over circuit court proceedings in which Page was a defendant.

Page had asked $10,000 damages when the suit was filed several days ago for trial at this session of court.

In the two other cases Wednesday Paul E. Maye and A. C. Maye were given consent judgments of $300 and $350 against Ritchie Grocer company.

Officer Is Cleared in Bowie Slaying

Patrolman Joe Barkman
Exonerated for Killing at Texarkana

TEXARKANA — Patrolman Joe Barkman of the Texarkana (Tex.) Police Department was exonerated Tuesday by the Bowie county Grand Jury in the slaying July 10 of John Lockett Powell, 22, Texarkana, who ran amok for four hours before being shot to death.

Powell's escape included the hijacking of the place where he was employed, the later return of the loot to its owner and the kidnapping of a policeman, Harvey Slover, whom he took on a ride and threatened with death.

Powell was confronted by Officer Barkman and Police Chief Jack Runnels as he stopped to pick up a hitchhiker inside the city limits. The officers and another man in the car who had been kidnapped by Powell, reported that Powell reached for his gun and stuck it in Barkman's face.

The officer ducked to the ground, then came up and shot Powell through the heart.

The Grand Jury's report said: "It was unavoidable on the part of the officer. The facts show full justification. Officer Barkman did not unnecessarily make use of his official position to take human life."

More Than 400 Are Examined Tuesday

Free Venereal Clinic for Negroes Is Conducted
Here

More than 400 negroes were examined Tuesday at the office of Drs. Yerger and Lewis in a free clinic fostered by the Southern Liberal Organization, a welfare institution for the advancement of negro people, which has worked with the co-operators of the State Health Department for the past two years.

In spite of a downpour of rain during the morning, more than 150 people from Fulton, McNab, Emmet, Washington and Columbus were in waiting when the hour arrived to begin.

At 11:30 it was necessary to transfer about 50 clients to the office of Dr. G. H. Martindale. Also, Dr. P. B. Carrigan was called in to aid in the large number of tests made. The county nurse and her assistant added much impetus by contributing a most efficient service.

At closing time it was necessary to turn away more than 100 applicants who were promised another opportunity around the latter part of August when further efforts will be made to cover the entire county.

The Texarkana clinic which was conducted Monday, fell short in attendance compared with the one here. The number examined there was 356, however, this was a repeat clinic, following a series conducted several months ago, when more than 2,000 were examined.

H. S. Barbour and Fred Henry, the two representatives of the organization, together with leading citizens expressed themselves as being satisfied with the success of the clinic, which was met with a greater response than had been anticipated.

MIND Your MANNERS

Test your knowledge of correct social usage by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

1. If you go to the house of an acquaintance and a servant whom you do not know opens the door for you, is it necessary to say "Thank you?"

2. If you know a servant in a friend's house do you greet him when he opens the door for you?

3. If a woman whom you know slightly speaks of her husband as "John," should you also refer to him by his first name?

4. May a bride call her parents-in-law by their first names?

5. If you are talking to someone who does not call one of your friends by her first name, should you then speak of her as "Mrs. Young?"

What would you do if—
Someone who spends a great deal of time in talking to him in thinking makes several positive statements that you know are not founded on fact—
(a) Tell him he doesn't know what he is talking about?
(b) Show him by a logical argument that he is wrong?
(c) Let his remarks pass unchallenged?

Answers
1. No, for this is merely a matter of routine.
2. Yes, with a pleasant, "How do you do, Charles?"
3. No. It is correct for a wife to call her husband by his first name in speaking to an acquaintance, but that is not a signal for the acquaintance to do so.
4. If they ask her to.
5. Yes.

Singing In the Rain

The trees on hills and flowers in vales keep singing in the rain; the more it rains, the more they sing, the sweeter their refrain; the rain can never their plans upset; it only joys them more; they plan to have their picnics when the rain begins to pour. Their life is quite impersonal, this life of tree and flower; the weather never makes them cross, however the clouds may lower. And if, to us, it seems to rain more lack or more of bad, perhaps, if we'll sing thru the rain, we'll find ourselves quite glad; and, if we're more impersonal, think less of loss or gain, we'll find the very thing we need, while singing in the rain. —Selected.

The Queen's Ball, last feature of the day will begin at 9:30 p. m. at the American Legion Hut, with Roscoe Bears orchestra, Hot Springs, playing.

During the World War it cost the United States government approximately $10,000 to train a pilot for warfare combat.

Mae's Man Gets Balm Expert's Aid

Mae West had better watch out now. "That man" Frank Wallace (left) has added John J. McNaboe (right) to the legal staff that is conducting his battle for recognition as the "Come up'n see me sometime" gal's husband. McNaboe, you will recall, leaped to fame by introducing New York's anti-heart balm bill. Now he'll fight to cut in Wallace on Mae's $3,000,000 movie fortune.

THEATERS

Rialto-Saenger When Dad Jones turns high-pressure stock salesman and America's favorite folks dream of sudden wealth from a wildcat oilwell boom, there's a gusher of laughter for Jones Family fans everywhere in the big two bargain days feature "Big Business," now showing at the Rialto.

In the face of the family's get-rich-quick dream, the kids keep on dreaming of love and romance, and in the end it is the kids who save the family from losing all when the oil hoax is exposed.

Thrilling action and unusual historical interest are combined in Harold Bell Wright's fast-moving screenplay, "The Californian," which is now showing at the Saenger. Ricardo Cortez has the starring role in the Twentieth Century-Fox release, which is set against the colorful background of the Old West in its most picturesque period.

Three top-ranking stars appear in the romantic adventure film which comes Thursday and Friday to the Saenger—Kay Francis, Errol Flynn and Ian Hunter.

"Another Dawn" is the picture—and the story is about a small British garrison in wild and picturesque Iraq (Arabia). Flynn and Hunter both love Miss Francis. One or the other has to sacrifice his life—and leave Kay to the survivor—in order that the garrison might not fall prey to the blood-thirsty Arabs who surround it.

One of them does. How they decide which one it shall be—how the hero goes forth to glory—and how the remaining one fares with the girl—all these things make up what is said to be one of 1937's tensest and most gripping movies.

Ditches Driver

ST. FRANCISVILLE, Ill.—(P)—Years back, Martin Brian, 30-year-old blacksmith, fixed a motor car. He decided he knew all about automobiles and backed the car out of the garage. But, he had neglected to learn how to stop, and smashed a plate glass window.

But Brian was persevering. He decided to make his own car, so he'd be sure to know how to operate it.

The finished product rambles about the streets of this Washburn town, with Brian at the wheel. It's the envy of all the children, and the grownups are interested, at least.

At first he operated it by hand pumping like a hand car. But now it operates with a washing machine motor. It will run 15 miles an hour, and once dumped Brian in the ditch.

Lightning Fatal to Columbia Man

Cecil Kyle Is Struck by Bolt as He Walked Through Woods

MAGNOLIA, Ark.—Cecil Kyle, 35, was killed instantly at noon Tuesday when struck by lightning while walking through open woods on the way to his home, nine miles south of here, near Brister.

He had finished plowing and was on his way home to lunch when the mishap occurred during the midst of a thunder-storm, which was accompanied by rain. The lightning also struck a tree some 30 feet from where the body was found.

When he did not come to lunch at the regular time, a sister, Mrs. Sarah Barfoot, went to search for him. She found him dead, with his arms outstretched. The only apparent wound on the body was a burn on one shoulder.

Surviving, in addition to Mrs. Barfoot, are the mother, Mrs. Jane Kyle, both of whom lived with him; a sister, Willie Kyle; and four other sisters, Miss Kyle of Brister, Mrs. Marvin Owen of McKamie, Ark., Mrs. H. C. McNulty of Magnolia, and Mrs. Floyd Owen of the Dyess colony.

Of the 571 planes produced in the United States during the first three months of 1937, 122 were exported.

Commerce in Alaska during 1936 was valued at $115,963,586, or about 10 times as much as the United States paid for the territory 69 years ago.

Barons Take Two From Little Rock

Memphis Breaks Losing Streak by Beating New Orleans

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—(AP)—Birmingham won its first games of the season in Little Rock Tuesday night, shattering the Travelers' 9-5 and 6-4 in a doubleheader.

The Barons were on a hitting spree pounding the Pebble hurlers hard in both games. Scott homered scoring Satchel ahead of him in the first inning of the nightcap.

Kola Sharpe, who failed to finish the first game, getting credit for the loss, came back to relieve Porter in the second and did a nice piece of work. The Travelers rallied in their half of the seventh but two runs were all they could push across.

Fawn at Eve Had Drunk Her Fill

Phoebe tips the bottle for an evening nip and fawns on the Michigan conservation officer at Cadillac State Park with a happy, little gesture. The park's officers became foster mothers to the dappled week-old fawn when she was picked up, apparently an orphan, in the national forest. It took her at least five minutes to learn the mysteries of the nibbled bottle.

Powell, One of Yankees' Bad Boys, Doesn't Know What "Out" Means

Outfielder Stirs Trouble as "Charmed Life" Encourages Him to Run Risks—His Greatest Value Lies in His Base-Running

By HARRY GRAYSON
Sports Editor, NEA Service

Alvin Jacob Powell is baseball's current bad boy.

Jake Powell is of sturdy Holland stock, but there's nothing stolid about the New York Yankees' left fielder. He is convinced that certain clubs, the Nationals particularly, are out to get him, and says that he is going to protect himself.

When he knocked Joe Kuhel flat in Washington some day back he was out by a dozen feet. Kuhel assumed that his former teammate would do the ordinary thing and permit himself to be tagged on the base line, but Powell gave the first baseman both fists on the chest, knocked him over, and caused him to drop the ball.

That gave Powell the distinction of being the target for pop bottle in his home town. As fast as the customers threw the bottles Powell picked them up and crashed them against the concrete bleachers. He had lots of fun until the cops stopped him.

When Kuhel tagged him lightly in the subsequent series at Yankee Stadium and on the same kind of a play that stirred up the trouble at Griffith Stadium, Powell pulled up sharply after crossing the bag, charged the first sacker, and led with the better right than any tossed at Joe Louis' jaw by Jim Braddock.

Fractured Greenberg's Wrist

Powell swerved into Hank Greenberg as he reached for an inside throw in the 18th game of 1936, fractured the large first baseman's wrist, and ruined Detroit's chance of winning the American League pennant for a third consecutive campaign.

The same day a foul tip off Powell's bat struck Mickey Cochrane on the foot and put the top Tiger out for three weeks.

Powell plays the game up to the hilt, and probably gets into so much trouble because he is fast and figures in so many close plays, especially at first base after hitting ground balls. He makes a habit of knocking the ball out of infielders' hands by hitting them on the wrists.

He frequently appears to have a charmed life on the paths. Something usually happens in his favor. When he apparently is out with something to spare, the catcher often makes a poor throw or the infielder drops the pellet, and Old Powder River is not only safe, but more often than not takes an extra base or two.

Although he made 10 hits, including a home run and a double to lead world series participants with .455, Powell no doubt realizes that he is no great shakes as a right-hand hitter and that his greatest value lies in his base-running.

Powell Doesn't Spare Himself
Anyway, he doesn't spare himself in that department.

His ambition is to win the theft championship, which he missed by a few bases in 1936, when Lyn Lary showed the way.

Powell, 28 on July 15, weighs 185 pounds, stands 5 feet 11 1/4 inches, and is as fearless as Sixto scolar.

He knows how to play rough with the least possible chance of being hurt himself.

Everything happens to Powell.

For a time in the minors it appeared as though he would turn out to be a Good Time Charley, and the beautiful Mrs. Powell, the former Elizabeth Phebus, is credited with having straightened the young man out along that line. She wouldn't marry him until he made good in the big show.

When Powell first went south with Washington in 1929, he roomed with Goose Goslin and mimicked the ancient and honorable Leon so well that they called him Little Goose.

Powell became so discouraged in 1933 that while playing with Dayton in the Middle Atlantic League he applied for a job on the police force there, and declares that he will accept the position then offered to him when he is finished with the baseball wars.

Right now, however, he continually is in trouble with traffic officers, due to his fondness for speed. He goes in for airplanes, too. Missing a train that carried the Nationals from Orlando, Fla., to Cordele, Ga., for an exhibition game in the spring of 1936, he calmly chartered a ship and had it charged to Clark Griffith.

Landis Had Outfielder on Carpet
Extraordinary activities had Powell before Judge Landis this spring, when it is said he was given a final warning.

Powell plays horses and shoots golf in the 80's.

A crossed nerve in his hip made it necessary for teammates to carry a pain-wracked Powell from the field two or three times in 1935, but this sciatic condition seems to have disappeared.

While holding out for $15,000 last winter, Powell lost $42 in a stick-up

Farr Is Confident He Can Whip Louis

British Fighter Arrives in U.S. in Quest of Heavy-weight Crown

NEW YORK.—(AP)—Tommy Farr, upon whose broad young shoulders ride the hopes of the British empire in the quest for Joe Louis' heavy-weight title, arrived Tuesday from London and impressed New Yorkers with his confidence and generally hard boiled appearance.

His opening declaration gave reporters the idea of what they could expect.

"I'll beat Louis because I have never been knocked out in my life and am not afraid of anyone but God," he said without so much as a trace of a smile as he drove his car into the garage of his home at Silver Springs, Md., on the outskirts of Washington. He got $3000 from Colonel Ruppert, by the way.

An appendectomy kept him out of the lineup for several weeks this spring.

Powell is something of a screwball, but you'll never convince him that he at any time was half as screwy as was Ben Chapman when the Birmingham Flash permitted himself to be traded down the river by the affluent Yankees.

REVIVES AN OLD DODGE

It generally was believed that this particular stunt was outmoded, but here is Tom Blower striking out on a 12-hour practice churn at Dover in preparation for a swim across the English channel. If successful, Blower, a British resident of Nottingham, plans to attempt the return trip.

on his scar-spotted face.
"Louis is a man with two legs and two eyes and he is no better than a lot of others I've met. If I didn't expect to lick him I wouldn't be here. All he has to do is stick his chin out once and he'll be gone."

It's Dean's Pitching Makes Rivals Sick

CINCINNATI—Warren Giles, general manager of the Cincinnati Reds, echoes the feeling of most National Leaguers on Dizzy Dean, the cantankerous St. Louis Cardinal.
"I'm sick of seeing Dean pitch against us, much less worry about what he has to say off the field," says Giles.

Yanks Win Double Bill From Browns

Increase Lead in American Loop to Six and a Half Games

ST. LOUIS.—(AP)—The New York Yankees ran their American League lead to six and a half games Tuesday by winning both ends of a double-header from the Browns. After winning the opener, five to four, in ten innings, they came back to capture the nightcap, nine to six. Joe DiMaggio, who hit safely in both games to run his streak to 21 games, clouted his 25th homer of the year in the first game with two on base.

Kansas Race Track May Not Be Opened Again

KANSAS CITY.—(AP)—The horses were off six times a day, but so was the betting. As a consequence there is considerable doubt that the Riverside race track will operate in 1938.

The 32-day meeting closed recently with the horses in far better shape than the club officials, who already had decided there will be no fall meeting this year.

Riverside's losses this year were the greatest in the 8-year history of the track. Estimates range between $12,000 and $20,000.

Studebaker Parts Service Expanded

Establishment of New Parts Depot at Denver Is Announced

SOUTH BEND, Ind.—An expansion program throughout the Studebaker Corporation's parts division was announced here by Geo. D. Keller, vice president in charge of sales.

Establishment of a new parts depot at Denver, Colorado, July 1, was the first step in the new plans which call for the addition of outlets throughout the country to supplement the present sixteen distributing centers.

"Although we are now in a position to give overnight service to any section of the United States, the sales volume reached during recent months indicates that further expansion of the parts facilities is necessary for the continuance of immediate and efficient parts service to Studebaker owners," Mr. Keller said.

The depot which was opened July 1, is managed by James A. Lee, and makes a total of sixteen Studebaker parts outlets now operating under the supervision of E. C. Mendler, manager of the Studebaker parts and accessory division.

Motor fatalities for the first half of 1937 were running more than 20 per cent ahead of the fatalities for the same period in 1936.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning

The liver should pour out two pounds of bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, weak and the world looks pink.

Calomel is only a makeshift. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.

As Vulcan Rained Death on 262

Pouring out great clouds of hot, sulphurous smoke that was laden with fine ashes and pumice dust, the crater on Vulcan Island is pictured here as it erupted in the harbor of Rabaul, New Britain, in the territory of New Guinea, raining destruction on Rabaul and killing 262 persons. During the eruption fire shot upward thousands of feet, witnesses said, and boulders were tossed high into the air, exploding from the intense heat.

Check Your Lights, Says Dodge Expert

Faulty Lights Cause of Many Accidents, Says Service Man

A timely safety note, addressed especially to vacation bound motorists, comes from W. R. Bamford, service director of the Dodge Division of Chrysler Corporation. Mr. Bamford's concern is with the dangers lurking in automobile headlights which because of faulty use or maintenance neglect are not functioning with original efficiency.

In support of his contention that faulty lights are the underlying cause of many accidents, Mr. Bamford cites the fact that though only one-third of all automobiles travel after dark, nearly two-thirds of the serious mishaps occur during the night hours. While official vigilance and driver education are undoubtedly effecting a decrease in the number of day accidents, this safety gain is almost entirely offset by increases in mishaps happening after dark.

To impress motorists with the truth that defective lights are responsible for night driving hazards and that proper service care given to headlights will eliminate that danger, Mr. Bamford points out that so trafficking a factor as the age of a lamp bulb may reduce the effective light by 50 per cent and more. If lenses and dirty, further light reduction may result. Dirt on lenses may reduce the light intensity 10 to 15 per cent, not to mention the glare that will be caused by the scattering of the beam. Any one of these short-comings will be further intensified by incorrect focusing or faulty direction of the headlight beam.

Not all motorists are aware of the elaborate steps taken by car manufacturers and dealers to equip service mechanics with a fuller understanding of light maintenance procedure and with apparatus for the checking and adjusting of headlights.

Purchasers of used cars especially should be insistent on the reconditioning of the lighting equipment of the cars before they enter upon the highways with them. Wide awake manufacturers are urging their dealers to include head light maintenance in periodic inspection and servicing programs which they sell, at combination rates, to their customers.

Nobody, Mr. Bamford thinks, should start on a trip involving considerable night driving without having his lights gone over by a competent service man, preferably by the dealer handling the make of car. Like many other service operations, light servicing is now done quickly with a scientific accuracy not even remotely approached by anything the individual car owner may attempt by homespun methods.

They had been living here as B. F. Jackson and Jack Jackson, working as carpenters.

The elder Jackson had been tried here three times in 1921 and 1922 for the murder of J. L. Tompkins, who also was a carpenter and lived with the Jacksons. He was not recognized at the time largely because he was neither photographed nor fingerprinted, and he refused to divulge information concerning his life before his arrival in Monroe.

Jackson said that Tompkins, whose real name was J. L. Mulford, had been convicted with them for the negro's murder and served on the chain gang. He denied that he killed Tompkins. He was acquitted at his last trial. The aged father admitted, however, that he killed the negro in Dublin, Ga.

He said that he was made a trusty night watchman on the chain gang in Wheeler county, Ga., and that he made skeleton keys with which he released his son.

They went to Jackson, Miss., where they worked for a while until the son saw and recognized Tompkins in a railway station. The three then came to Monroe.

Tompkins was found murdered in the woods near here. The elder Jackson was arrested, but won two mistrials in October, 1921, and an acquittal the following May.

Arnold and Doyle two-story brick office building in downtown Camden.

The razed section of the city's largest office structure housed the S. A. Oakley and Son Dry Goods store and union bus terminal on the first floor and 11 offices on the second, including district quarters of the state highway department.

Fire Chief Henry Smedley said the flames first were seen near the rear of the east wing but the origin had not been determined. A fire wall erected after fire destroyed the building in 1935 saved the west wing from destruction. A tornado wrecked the structure in 1931. It was built in 1923 during the oil boom.

The state of New York made compulsory the use of non-shatterable glass in the windows and windshields of all passenger cars sold in the state on January 1, 1935.

Father and Son Are Held as Fugitives

Face Return to Prison 18 Years After Escape From Chain Gang

MONROE, La.—(AP)—A father and son, for 18 years fugitives from a Georgia chain gang, face a return to prison.

F. M. Wyatt, 73, walked out of the Milton Coverdale's office and told of the escape in 1919 while the pair were serving a life term for killing a negro. The son, G. M. Wyatt, 55, was arrested later.

They had been living here as B. F. Jackson and Jack Jackson, working as carpenters.

The elder Jackson had been tried here three times in 1921 and 1922 for the murder of J. L. Tompkins, who also was a carpenter and lived with the Jacksons. Fame Isn't What It Takes to Be a Friend of Stars

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—One of Joan Crawford's closest friends is Kasha LeSueur. Closest to Simone Simon is a tall and pretty girl named Lee Frederic. Joan Blondell and Ruth Pursey are inseparables, at the studio and socially.

If you want to know anything about Kasha Lombard, you go to Madeline Fields, or "Fieldie." Fieldie will tell you if she thinks it is any of your business. And Dot Pondel probably knows more about Marlene Dietrich than anybody in Hollywood, except Marlene.

Kasha and Lee and Ruth and Fieldie and Dot—all of them prove you don't have to be famous to be counted a friend of the famous.

Kasha is Joan Crawford's standing, and her ex-sister-in-law. When Kasha's marriage to Joan's brother Hal crashed, Kasha's friendship with Joan survived and flourished. And Kasha's little girl is Joan's favorite child.

Lee Frederic is a script clerk. She met Simone when the actress went to work in "Under Two Flags." Simone didn't finish the picture, but out of it came a lasting friendship with Lee. The story is that it started with a memorable fight. Simone was temperamental, and Lee didn't like temperamental. Lee told Simone off. Now Simone tells Lee everything.

Ruth, Pursey is Joan Blondell's hairdresser. They met when Joan first came to Hollywood. When Joan married Dick Powell, it was Ruth who was maid of honor. That rather surprised Hollywood, accustomed to screen stars to share the spotlight on such occasions. But it didn't surprise Ruth, nor Joan. They're regular people.

Ruth once worked on Marlene Dietrich, but quit. Dot Pondel, the make-up girl, got along with Marlene better. Dot made up Dietrich for her first Hollywood test, and has been with her ever since. If she's assigned to other stars while Dietrich is making a picture, Dot gets up earlier to finish the others and be free for Marlene. Stays on the set with her, and even gives her evenings to prepare Marlene for special evening events. Marlene does things like this: selects gifts personally when Dot is furnishing a house. Sends her town doctor when Dot is ill. Presents elaborate gifts on the slightest provocation. And likes her for herself, which some people think is nicer than gifts.

Fieldie and Carole Lombard were Sennett bathing beauties together. When Carole forged ahead in films the first thing she did was put Fieldie under long-term verbal contract as secretary. Fieldie lives at Carole's house, takes care of her income and interests, and makes Lombard worry about her because she works so much. Carole won't let her diet (Fieldie's a little on the portly side) but that's the only item on which they disagree.

These are some of the more common symptoms or warnings of biliousness or so-called "torpid liver," so prevalent in hot climates. Don't neglect them. Take Calomel, the improved calomel compound tablets that give you the effects of calomel and salts, combined. You will be delighted with the prompt relief they afford. Trial package ten cents, family pkg. twenty-five cents. At drug stores. (Ad)

Hot Weather is Here—Beware of Biliousness!

Have you ever noticed that in very hot weather your organs of digestion and elimination seem to become torpid or lazy? Your food sours, forms gas, causes belching, heartburn, and a feeling of restlessness and irritability. Perhaps you may have sick headache, nausea and dizziness or blind spells on suddenly rising. Your tongue may be coated, your complexion bilious and your bowel actions sluggish or insufficient.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD

By William Fergusson

IN 1859, ASTRONOMERS WERE SO POSITIVE THAT THEY SAW A PLANET BETWEEN MERCURY AND THE SUN, THE NAME "VULCAN" WAS GIVEN TO IT. MODERN ASTRONOMERS ARE CONVINCED THAT NO SUCH BODY EXISTS.

THERE ARE NO DOMESTICATED BEES!

THOSE LIVING IN OUR MAN-MADE HIVES ARE AS WILD AS THOSE INHABITING HOLLOW TREES IN THE JUNGLE.

AN AVERAGE OF 105,000 BASE BALLS ARE USED DURING ONE SEASON BY THE MAJOR LEAGUES.

BEES are commonly spoken of as domesticated insects, but the bee that lives in the most scientifically equipped apiary can be transported to a hollow tree and he will be equally at home. A bee never learns to know its master from any other person.
